

Texas Privacy Policy for Texas Consumers

Updated July 2024

This Texas Privacy Policy explains how Cargill collects and processes Consumer Personal Information (defined below) about Texas residents who are consumers (i.e., individuals acting in a personal or household context) in accordance with the Texas Data Privacy and Security Act (“Texas Privacy Law”). This Texas Privacy Policy supplements the Online Privacy Policy for consumers who reside in Texas but does not apply to data about individuals acting in a commercial or employment context.

Categories of Personal Information. Cargill may collect, process, and share the following categories of personal information about you (collectively, “Consumer Personal Information”):

- Contact details, including name, address, telephone number, email address;
- Transactional data, including credit card or payment information needed to complete your transaction;
- Supplemental information, including information provided by our business partners, social media, or other sources; and
- Usage and device data, including usage data that is sent to us by your web browser or mobile application via “cookies” and other technologies, such as pages you visit and browsing history, content obtained via online forms, general (not precise) geolocation information, and responses to electronic communications, as well as information about the device you use to access our website or mobile app, such as IP address, unique device identifiers, operating system, and mobile network information.

We do not collect Consumer Personal Information that is “sensitive data” under Texas Privacy Law.

Purposes of Processing and Cookies. For information on our purposes of use and processing of Consumer Personal Information and our use of Cookies, please consult our Online Privacy Policy.

Disclosures of Consumer Personal Information.

We may disclose all of the categories of Consumer Personal Information described above to:

- Third party service providers that perform data processing activities on our behalf, and subject to appropriate privacy and security obligations;
- Distributors and intermediaries in connection with the performance of transactions;
- Government and other authorities as required by law;
- Potential purchases and other parties in connection with the sale, purchase, or merger of a business; and
- Others to the extent necessary to comply with applicable law and as otherwise permitted under Texas Privacy Law.

We may also disclose email address, and usage and device data to social media and ad networks (see section below on targeted advertising).

Your Rights. You have the right to confirm whether we are processing your Consumer Personal Information, and to access, correct inaccuracies, delete, and if available, request a digital copy of your Consumer Personal Information. You also have the right to opt-out of the processing of Consumer Personal Information for purposes of targeted advertising, sale, and profiling.

Exercising your rights. To exercise any of the rights listed above, please contact us using the information provided below. In order to fulfill your request, we may ask for additional information to verify your identity, and we will keep a record of your request and your contact details to ensure that your request is respected. We will attempt to fulfill your request within a reasonable time and as required by Texas law. If we decline to take action regarding your request, we will notify you providing our reasons and you may initiate an appeal decision by contact us as specified in the “Contact Us” section below and specifying “NOTICE OF APPEAL” at the beginning of your message. You have the right to designate an authorized agent to exercise these rights on your behalf. We will comply with all requests received from authorized agents to the extent we are able to verify, with commercially reasonable effort, your identity and the authorized agent's authority to act on your behalf.

Targeted Advertising and Sale of Data. Cargill does not sell data in the ordinary sense of the word, but we may engage in the "sale" of data as defined under Texas Privacy Law. As such, Cargill may engage in the sale of Consumer Personal Information to third parties, and the processing of Consumer Personal Information for purposes of targeted advertising. To opt-out of these activities for the browser that you are using, please click on the “Manage Cookies” link in the footer of a Cargill web page or in the settings page of the mobile app. You can also contact us using the information provided in the Contact Us section below.
