Master Pack Grab & Go Solution

The fast, simple solution
for your Grab & Go case

Your Grab & Go deli case is the ultimate destination for shoppers seeking quick access to quality deli meat. In fact, Grab & Go now accounts for nearly a quarter of all bulk deli sales.¹ However, the current process of slicing and packaging bulk deli product is labor intensive and time consuming.

That's why Cargill introduced Grab & Go solutions, including the 1.0 pre-sliced master pack solution that drastically reduces the time it takes to prepare a Grab & Go product — helping to reduce shrink, avoid lost sales and increase your profits.

REDUCED
LABOR + REDUCED
SHRINK + AVOIDING
LOST SALES
= INCREASED PROFITS

23% SHARE OF SALES

Grab & Go now accounts for 23% of bulk deli volume, an 8% increase from 2019, and growth is expected to continue with a +5% 5-year CAGR.¹

✓ Labor Savings

On average, it takes seven minutes to prepare five pounds of a single deli product sliced for the Grab & Go case. Cargill's Grab & Go solution reduces the time from seven minutes to one minute by doing the labor-intensive prep work for you.

✓ Operationally Efficient

By receiving a bulk pack of pre-sliced product, you're reducing shrink and labor, which can save you up to an average of $1.10 per pound.* And it's easy to stock, so you won't miss sales.

✓ Consistent

Let Cargill provide your private label bulk deli needs. This ensures consistent product experience between both your Grab & Go and full-service deli counters.

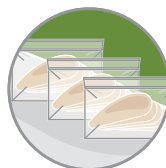

How 1.0 Works

1. Cargill slices and shingles quality deli meat that looks similar to what's currently in your Grab & Go case.

2. Deli meat arrives to your store in a master pack that extends shelf life.

3. Deli Associates portion out the deli meat.

4. Associates put deli meat in a bag, weigh and label it, and take it to the Grab & Go case.

Individual Bag Grab & Go Solution

Pre-portioned bags in proprietary packaging designed for your Grab & Go case

Your Grab & Go deli case is the ultimate destination for shoppers seeking quick access to quality deli meat. In fact, Grab & Go now accounts for nearly a quarter of all bulk deli sales.¹ However, the current process of slicing and packaging bulk deli product is labor intensive and time consuming.

That's why Cargill introduced Grab & Go solutions, including the 2.0 pre-sliced individually portioned solution that drastically reduces the time it takes to prepare a Grab & Go product — helping to reduce shrink, avoid lost sales and increase your profits.

REDUCED LABOR + REDUCED SHRINK + AVOIDING LOST SALES
= INCREASED PROFITS

23% SHARE OF SALES

Grab & Go now accounts for 23% of bulk deli volume, an 8% increase from 2019, and growth is expected to continue with a +5% 5-year CAGR.¹

✓ Labor Savings

On average, it takes seven minutes to prepare five pounds of a single deli product sliced for the Grab & Go case. Cargill's Grab & Go solution reduces the time from seven minutes to one minute by doing the labor-intensive prep work for you.

✓ Operationally Efficient

By receiving sliced, prepackaged product, you're reducing shrink and labor, which can save you up to an average of $1.10 per pound.* And it's easy to stock, so you won't miss sales.

✓ Award-Winning Design

Cargill's insights-driven packaging won two Flexible Packaging Association Silver Awards in 2020 for "Packaging Excellence" and "Technical Innovation."

✓ Consistent

Let Cargill provide your private label bulk deli needs. This ensures consistent product experience between both your Grab & Go and full-service deli counters.

How 2.0 Works

1. Cargill slices and shingles quality deli meat that looks similar to what's currently in your Grab & Go case.

2. Deli meat arrives to your store prepackaged in individual bags that extend shelf life and are labeled with nutritional information.

3. Deli Associates weigh, scale label and take it to the Grab & Go case.
